Avera Fire Bowl

Our Corten fire bowls are manufactured from heavy gauge, 3/16" thick steel and are designed to last a lifetime. They may be used for wood-burning or speced with natural gas or propane burners. Corten (weathered steel) is an alloy that develops a stable, rust-like oxidation on its surface when exposed to the elements. This layer, which continually regenerates, provides a no-maintenance finish that protects the steel from corroding.

Our Creative garden features are not only original designs and pieces of art, but they are innovative to the concrete casting industry. Each unit is hand sculpted by artisans who specialize not only in creativity but in quality driven concrete products.

Our products are suitable for outdoor use, being manufactured from proprietary blends of concrete and having unique weather resistant finishes applied. Outdoor pieces are cast in grey cement and aggregate mix and then stained. In order to produce a top-quality concrete that will not deteriorate in the winter, two additives are used:

- air entraining: this puts microscopic bubbles in the concrete that contract and expand during the freeze/thaw cycle
- water reducing plasticizers: less water in the mix equates to a higher strength, more enduring concrete

Just Add Water!

Looking for a little stress relief? The sound of water trickling over a brook or bubbling from a fountain or bubbling rock can do wonders for your mood. As homeowners look for more reasons to enjoy their yards, many are turning to water features. Ponds, waterfalls and fountains are ideal for relaxing and turning an ordinary yard into a multi-sensory experience. The biggest advantage of water features is that they add another element to the landscaping that you can't get from other means. Water is a natural draw for many people because it enhances whatever space they have.

There are many ways to add water in a landscape, whether you are starting fresh or trying to revitalize an existing garden. Water features are also available in a wide variety of sizes and prices making the investment possible for everyone!

As you debate whether to add a fish pond, a stream, or a dramatic bubbling rock, think about how much space you have and how you plan to use it. Is it for quiet relaxation or entertaining large crowds on the patio?

Many people design their water feature near their patio or deck. Others like to create a dramatic entrance to their home, tucking a running stream with a waterfall near the front walkway.

Water features can also enhance the indoor experience, adding interesting views and/or sounds from an open window. In those cases, the pond or waterfall should be strategically positioned so it can be seen or heard from specific areas of the home.

When selecting a location, look for a spot where it can be seen and heard without being too far back in the yard. Some people look for a low spot in the yard because it reduces the amount of site preparation needed. That strategy can work as long as the water feature is close enough to be enjoyed or near the most utilized area of the existing landscape. When you go outdoors to relax you will want to see and hear the feature! The scale of the water feature also is important, as it should coordinate with the size of the house and yard without overpowering the space. If a pond is too large or a fountain is too small, it would seem out of place; If you don't have the scale right, it just ruins the look.

One popular water feature, particularly in suburban homes, is a pond. Ponds can take many shapes, from oval ponds surrounded by a decorative fence to those that are designed to nestle around a few perennial beds. Most ponds have rocks shaping the edges and a water element, whether it is a waterfall or an underwater pump that circulates the water. The movement is needed to help reduce mosquito growth and add some interest.

Water elements also can mask outside noises. If a house is near the entryway to a subdivision or backs up to a busy roadway, a waterfall could be strategically placed to divert attention away from the street noise.

While water features are ideal for many large yards, they also can fit into smaller spaces. In a narrow city lot, for example, you could add a fountain against one wall or on a table. In medium-size houses with existing gardens, relocate one perennial bed near a patio to make room for a small pond or fountain. Don't forget that a featured bubbling stone can make for an easy install and wonderful water effect for a small space!

Once you find the balance between location, size and scale, materials, and overall design, the sights and sounds of nature will take over!

CREATIVE GABIONS

info@creativelandscapedepot.com
519 - 664 - 0225

Gabions are a new trend to the landscape & design industry. Gabions provide an attractive, effective, and inexpensive retaining-wall system, that can be filled with any sort of inorganic material: rock, brick, concrete debris, or whatever object your creativity can imagine!

What are the Benefits of Gabion Walls?

Aesthetics

Gabions look natural and can tie a house to the landscape by using filler materials excavated from the site or the local terrain. Customize your gabion design to your lifestyle and existing environment by filling them with unique and personal items!

Environmental Friendliness

When onsite material is used as filler, transportation costs and associated fuel consumption are eliminated.

Sustainability

Used as shade screens in hot climates, gabion walls provide passive cooling; they allow air to move through, providing ventilation.

Permeability

Gabions are permeable and free-draining; they can't be washed away by moving water.

Easy Installation and Built-In Strength

The stone fill settles to the contours of the ground beneath it and has such frictional strength that no foundation is required. In fact, the wall's strength and effectiveness may increase with time, as silt and vegetation fill the voids and reinforce the structure. Another advantage over more rigid structures: Gabions can conform to ground movement.

Long-Lasting

Both in strength and offering a timeless approach to design and style.
